Arkansas Has Two Top Posts in Congress

Those of us who supported John L. McClellan in the U.S. senatorial campaign were gratified by Wednesday's announcement that he has been confirmed as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, the most powerful panel in the upper chamber.

Some editors took what seemed to us to be a shallow view of the 1972 campaign, waiving the seniority issue to tend the fire around the stump speaking. The Star being an original backer of McClellan since his first successful race in 1942 we supported him vigorously in all the ensuing campaigns, recognizing the tremendous value to Arkansas of his steady rise from a yearling member to a dominant position in the Senate.

Seniority is one of the hard facts of American politics, but little understood by many citizens in our free and easy way of campaigning. The rules under which the Senate and House operate are old and invulnerable to public opinion. It has to be that way, otherwise responsible continuity of government would dissolve in the changing whims of the people.

The system has paid off for Arkansas, which now has the two top positions of the entire Congress—

Wilbur D. Mills as chairman of the House Ways & Means Committee, and John L. McClellan as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Well, hello!

British soldier is slain

BELFAST (AP) — A bomb planted on a country road killed a British soldier today. He was the first soldier slain since British forces invaded the strongholds of the Irish Republican Army Monday.

Meanwhile, the seventh victim of the bomb blitz Monday in the village of Claudy died of her injuries. The two deaths raised Northern Ireland's violence toll in three years of religious warring to 487 dead.

The British army said it was on the alert for IRA retaliatory action. It said it was withdrawing some of its troop carriers because their armor plating was not strong enough to stop high velocity shells the guerrillas are using. The vehicles will get tougher plating before being put back in service.

A full company of about 150 British troops escorted Protestant workers to their jobs in the Sirocco engineering plant in East Belfast today following the shooting of two Sirocco workmen Wednesday by a sniper in a Catholic neighborhood nearby.

The wounding of the two men touched off a running battle between rival mobs of Catholics and Protestants, and the army drove a wedge of troops between them. It set up the escort today after the Ulster Defense Association of militant Protestants threatened to send its men to protect the workers.

2,000 VN marines in house-to-house clash with North Vietnamese

SAIGON (AP) — More than 2,000 South Vietnamese marines assaulted the western half of Quang Tri City today, but they ran into house to house fighting and heavy North Vietnamese artillery fire.

American jet pilots reported destroying an ammunition depot on the outskirts of the devastated town so big there were more than 300 secondary explosions and 14 fires.

"It looked like a big fireworks display," one pilot said. Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from Quang Tri that South Vietnamese tank fire leveled the last few buildings still standing outside the Citadel in the country's northernmost provincial capital, which the North Vietnamese captured on May 1.

Despite earlier claims by the South Vietnamese government that its forces had recaptured most of Quang Tri, the North Vietnamese still hold the western part and the 50-acre walled Citadel in the heart of the city.

The Marines last week replaced a brigade of some 2,000 paratroopers who suffered heavy losses in an unsuccessful attempt to storm the Citadel.

A U.S. adviser indicated that the marines would try to starve the enemy inside the fortress, U.S. F4 Phantoms beamed 2,000-pound laser bombs onto former allied combat base now being used by the enemy west of the Thach Han River.

Eighty miles to the southeast, Communist forces heavily shelled the U.S. air base at Da Nang, killing one American and four Vietnamese and wounding 20 Americans and one Vietnamese. It was the second American base shelled in three days. Twenty-five miles to the south of Da Nang, South Vietnamese infantrymen battled North Vietnamese troops around the district town of Que Son.

Selection of VP nominee is promised by Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern, nominated for president under the new-politics banner, is picking his second vice-presidential candidate the same, traditional way he picked the first: lots of caucuses with party leaders and lots of names leaked by advisers.

But the suspense will end soon. Frank Mankiewicz, a top McGovern strategist said Wednesday night the announcement will come by Friday.

The newest addition to the putative list of potential McGovern running-mates is Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, whose credentials include four years' experience.

One close McGovern adviser said in an interview Wednesday night that "Hubert's got everything Muskie does, and in spades. He's liked by labor, blacks, Jews and the party regulars."

Twenty-four hours earlier the same source was touting Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine for the job of replacing Missouri Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton on the Democratic ticket.

Asked why the switch, he said: "Frankly, we never thought Hubert would take it. After all, he had the job once already" from 1964-1968 under President Lyndon B. Johnson. "But I heard today from a mutual friend that he was interested."

Other observers, who are admittedly not as close to McGovern, scoffed at reports that the Minnesota senator is a serious possibility.

"Somebody at McGovern headquarters must have realized Humphrey hadn't been mentioned all week and figured his feelings might be hurt," said an aide to one Democratic senator. "So now they're mentioning him."

Others considered in the running for the nomination are former Democratic National Committee Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, Idaho Sen. Frank Church—who says he is too much like McGovern to offer any balance to the ticket—Boston Mayor Kevin White, former Peace Corps Director R. Sargent Shriver and Sen. Edward

M. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Kennedy is presumably McGovern's first choice. But he has long said he is not interested in seeking national office this year.

McGovern, in the meantime, has been conducting meetings, conferring with congressional colleagues and telephoning party leaders.

"I'm not going to be hurried on it," the South Dakota senator said Wednesday. "I want to take my time. I want to confer with a number of people. I want to make a careful decision."

The Democratic National Committee is to meet in Washington Tuesday to act on McGovern's recommendation for a new vice-presidential nominee.

McGovern won the nomination largely without the help of the so-called party establishment, relying on a huge corps of mostly young volunteers to push doorbells and lick stamps.

But his deliberations on a successor to Eagleton have included seeking advice from party regulars. In the big, important states of Michigan, Texas and New York, party leaders have reported being queried by McGovern lieutenants.

Joseph Crangle, the New York State party chairman, said Wednesday he is urging McGovern to announce formally several possible running-mates and wait for public reaction before deciding.

American Party opens national convention

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The American Party opens its national convention at the state Fairgrounds today with Rep. John Schmitz, R-Calif., regarded as the likely presidential nominee.

The congressman from President Nixon's home district, defeated for re-election, began his candidacy Wednesday from Washington and then flew here.

The announcement, along with comments from American Party leaders, tended to dampen a pre-convention movement to draft Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who said a week ago he would not run this year under a third party banner.

Asked if there was any chance the governor might accept a draft, T. Coleman Andrews Jr. of Richmond, Va., the party's national chairman, told a reporter, "absolutely not."

Earlier in the day Tom Turnipseed, a Columbia, S. C., lawyer and former national campaign manager for Wallace, insisted he had received "plenty of encouragement" for his assertion Wallace would accede to a genuine draft.

However, Turnipseed acknowledged he had not spoken to the governor since the Democratic National Convention, at which time he said Wallace told him: "If the American people want me, I will not turn them down."

Schmitz said he had talked with Wallace "at length by telephone" in the past few days.

"He assured me most sincerely and unmistakably that the present condition of his health will not permit his taking any further part in the presidential election of 1972, even by having his name printed on any state ballot," Schmitz said.

Schmitz, 41, a Roman Catholic, was born in Milwaukee and is a former Marine pilot and college instructor. His political career began with election to the California Senate in 1964.

The only serious potential rival of Schmitz was L. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, who plans to address the delegates Friday, the day the presidential candidate is to be chosen.

Bremer's diary indicates Nixon was primary target

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — A step-by-step account by Arthur H. Bremer of how he planned and failed to assassinate President Nixon in Ottawa, Canada, was read to a hushed jury in Prince Georges Circuit Court today.

As Bremer buried his head in his arms, Benjamin Lipsitz, his attorney, read page after page from Bremer's diary that told of his failure to get into the hotel where he thought Nixon would be staying, his failure to get into the airport where the President was to land and finally, his failure to get off a shot as the President's car rushed by.

The diary related that Bremer, the accused assailant of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, had only a glimpse of Nixon as the President's motorcade from the airport sped by on the way into Ottawa during a visit in April.

"He went by before I knew it," Bremer wrote in the diary. "A dark silhouette rushed by in a black car."

"All over. I had missed it. The best chance to get him was over."

Lipsitz, who had read the first 35 pages of the 114-page diary at a late night session Wednesday, picked up where he left off as the trial on state charges entered its fourth day today.

Bremer has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to 17 charges stemming from the shooting of Wallace and three other persons at a Laurel, Md. political rally May 15.

The final portions of the diary related that after Bremer failed in his attempt to kill Nixon he turned to Wallace as his primary target.

The diary indicated that Bremer was concerned that Wallace was not important enough to gain him the attention he wanted.

"They never heard of Wallace," an entry in the diary said.

"The editors will say, 'Wallace dead? Who cares?'"

"You won't get more than three minutes on network news."

Bremer wrote in his diary that he hoped when he succeeded in shooting Wallace "everyone screams and hollers."

Lipsitz is reading the entire diary to the jury, apparently hoping it will back up his contention that Bremer is legally insane and not responsible for his actions.

Eight U.S. soldiers are killed

Egypt-Libya merger: A threat or act of desperation?

TWO YOUTHS KILLED

The presidents of Libya and Egypt, announcing their intention to make their nations one, evidently mean to threaten the United States and the West with measures leading eventually to an oil crisis. But some may see a ring of desperation in their words more suggestive of frustration than of menace.

Both Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Muammar Kadhafi of Libya are subject to home pressures and to infuriating contradictions on the world stage.

The two leaders seem frustrated because they are opposed not only by Arabs but by the powerful Russians to whom they have looked for help without a full measure of trust.

So the Egypt-Libya union has the sound of a defiant go-it-alone challenge to Israel, the United States, Europe and Russia, all at once. To hear the young and hot-headed Col. Kadhafi tell it, as he did in a speech more than a year ago, Egypt and Libya will lead a legion of a million Arab men, an air armada of a thousand planes and a land fleet of 5,000 tanks in a Jihad—a holy war—to crush Israel and "liberate" Palestine once and for all.

Now he and Sadat have made what purports to be a step in this direction.

The proposition is that united Arabs will mobilize and arm for the final battle with the money they get from Arab oil. Meanwhile they could mortally wound their "imperialist" antagonists by shutting off the oil.

But Arab unity has invariably been more shadow than substance, however passionate Ka-dafi seems to be about it. The United Arab Republic combining Egypt and Syria crumbled in 1961 after three shaky years. An attempt to unite Sudan with Egypt and Libya has wound up nowhere. The "federation" of Syria, Libya and Egypt, formed a year ago, is opposed by a number of elements, including Russian-backed Syrian Communists.

The Sadat-Kadhafi joint statement, an echo of a speech Sadat made last week, noted that the Arab world possesses a powerful weapon, oil, "which if used effectively and successfully would realize our goals, because Arab oil provides 60 per cent of the world's consumption." The West knows this and thus tries to stop unity.

But Egypt and Libya have yet to convince the Arabian peninsula's sheiks that they should shut off oil to the West. Libya gets $2.4 billion a year in oil revenue—in a nation of 2½ million people—but the Arab rulers cannot drink their oil. It's no good to them until it is out of the ground and marketed. And for Kadhafi it can be political dynamite if the Libyans get restless and demand a bigger share of the oil wealth.

Both Sadat and Kadhafi—especially Kadhafi—are devout Moslems who abhor atheistic Communism. Both fear Moscow.

Neither Sadat nor Kadhafi has looked secure in his position lately. Still, the two might be able to bring their project off, whereupon a year hence there will exist a combined nation of 35 million Egyptians and 2½ million Libyans equipped with Libya's oil money and Egypt's myriad of troubles.

Farmers suffer, costs go higher

Storm warning for screwworm raised higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — This summer a farmer had to pay $6.43 for a pair of overalls which a year ago cost him $6.02, he climbed on a $19,300 combine which in 1971 cost $17,830 and harvested wheat worth $1.32 per bushel, two cents less than a year ago.

The figures, published by the Agriculture Department, illustrate a basic problem for most farmers today: Even if they produce more and prices for some commodities are better — notably livestock — rising costs are eating into family budgets.

Department economists say, however, that higher prices for cattle and hogs this year have generated a trend of improvement and that net farm income is expected to rise by about $2 billion over last year.

Costs of production have risen steadily for several years. In July, the USDA said, the average prices farmers paid for operating expenses, including goods, services, taxes and wages, rose by one per cent — pushing the level to 27 per cent more than five years ago.

The monthly price report included price samples for items commonly needed and purchased by farmers, for men's overalls and combines to bricks and fertilizer.

Looking at older records shows even a greater disparity. Overalls in 1969, for example, cost $5.17 at a time wheat sold for $1.22 per bushel. A comparable grain combine in 1969 averaged about $11,000.

Corn in June 1969 brought $1.18 per bushel, five cents more than in the month this year. Cattle averaged $28 per 100 pounds in June 1969; about $18.50 last summer, then rose to a record $34.00 last month.

A large tractor, rated in the 90 to 99 horsepower range, sold in 1969 for about $8,810. By June last year it cost $9,000 and this summer was $10,000 on the average according to USDA records.

Although no end is seen for rising production costs, department economists insist the rate of increase has slowed.

No change in Paris talks

More blacks join Guard

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter said today the Communist seven-point peace plan seems "more remote than ever from political and military reality," and repeated the U.S. appeal for an immediate cease-fire in Vietnam.

The secret meeting Tuesday between President Nixon's adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese negotiators did not appear to have altered the Communist position in the talks.

Hanoi's Xuan Thuy stuck firmly to his demands that the United States end the bombing, pull out of Vietnam and stop supporting President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The American negotiator criticized the Communist demand for what he called "dismantling" much of the Saigon regime as a "precondition to negotiations," adding that "the psychological and practical obstacles to such change stagger the imagination."

Assailing the American air war, Thuy told the 153rd session of the peace talks: "To launch saturation bombing raids with the B52 strategic bombers, to use napalm and toxic chemicals, to wage a war of genocide and bioicide in South Vietnam, this is in fact the most barbaric invasion in history. The bombing of the dikes and dams to cause floods, a disaster for millions of North Vietnamese, is to commit crimes more monstrous than those of the Fascist Hitlerites."

Thuy said the Vietnamese people "have done no harm to the United States. On the contrary, the U.S. has waged a war of aggression in Vietnam for many years now, and the Nixon administration is pursuing that unjust war with unprecedented cruelty and perpetrating war crimes surpassing the gravity of those already condemned by the Nuernberg tribunal."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although falling short of the announced goal to double the number of blacks, the National Guard and reserves added more than 6,000 Negroes to their rosters during the past year with the biggest gains coming in units in the South.

According to the Pentagon, stepped-up recruiting efforts since last fall boosted black membership in the backup forces to 23,213 as of June 30.

There were 16,792 blacks in the Army and Air National Guard and reserve forces of the four military services as of June 30, 1971.

At that stage, blacks represented about 1.7 per cent of the guardsmen and reservists. The latest figure represents 2.5 per cent of the million-man reserves.

Pentagon officials say they are encouraged by the black-recruiting effort so far because it represents "the only appreciable increase" in the number of blacks that ever has been registered.

"We're not proud in the sense of full accomplishment," says Dr. T. C. Mars, Pentagon manpower official overseeing the recruiting drive.

Most important, says Mars, the recruiting success thus far has laid the foundation for future increases as new members begin bringing in their friends.

During the same time period, the Tennessee Guard went from 152 blacks to 235, Texas from 153 to 255, Alabama from 88 to 207, Florida from 104 to 201, Georgia from 52 to 124 and North Carolina from 126 to 200.

In the North, Michigan added 51 blacks to its Guard rosters, while black membership in the New York Guard went from 549 to 591.

Illinois, the state with the highest percentage of blacks in the Guard, added 109 Negroes, raising black membership to 4.7 per cent of the state's 14,571 guardsmen.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post, the legislature's independent nonpartisan fiscal expert, frequently has been a critic of administration welfare case-loads and claims in welfare savings.

Post said in an interview that Reagan reforms have been "a significant factor" in the lower caseload. But he said general improvement in the economy must be counted, too.

GOP seeking early-to-bed TV audience

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are tuning their three-day national convention to the early-to-bed television audience, not to the insomniacs.

Those making the arrangements promise an "interesting and exciting" convention starting in Miami Beach on Aug. 21, despite the fact the outcome is assured.

"The American people will watch ours," the GOP National Committee chairman, Sen. Robert J. Dole, predicted Wednesday at a news conference.

The five sessions, two afternoon gathering of two hours each starting at 1 o'clock and three at night scheduled to end not later than 10:30, were arranged, Dole said, so every TV viewer wanting to can conveniently watch them.

"Not just the insomniacs," he added, referring to last month's four-day Democratic convention in which all sessions ran past midnight and two ended at day-break.

The afternoon GOP sessions are booked for Monday and Tuesday, with the finale starting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and ending at 10:30. At that final session the nominees will make their acceptance speeches.

The Monday and Tuesday night sessions will be two-hour affairs starting at 8:30. The nomination for president is set for Tuesday night, and for vice president Wednesday night.

To live up to the proceedings, Dole said, "spontaneous" victory demonstrations of about 15 minutes' duration will follow each nomination. Democrats barred such merry-making from their convention.

Five movies will be shown during the proceedings. None will exceed 15 minutes, Dole said. They will include tributes to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mrs. Nixon, a review of Republican accomplishments, some scenes about "Nixon The Man," and a visual keynote presentation.

The Republicans anticipate no squabbles such as the ones that split the Democrats over credentials, platform and party rules. Their Credentials Committee's first and probably only meeting is scheduled the day the convention opens.

It took the Democrats more than a week to draft a credentials report and an all-night session for the convention to act on it.

Storm warnings to Arkansas livestock producers to be on the alert for screwworms were hoisted higher this week when a positive screwworm sample was identified from Hooks, Tex., almost within walking distance of Little River and Miller Counties in Southwest Arkansas.

Dr. David Ibsen, extension veterinarian for the University of Arkansas, said that in June alone, Texas had over 16,000 cases of screwworms, the worst month in the history of the dread fly larvae.

The adult fly, says Dr. Ibsen, lays eggs in a fresh wound; the eggs hatch into larvae which feed on the wound, causing extensive damage to the tissue and possible death to the animal.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey was reported today still firmly opposed to running for another term as vice president — this time as the running mate for Sen. George McGovern.

McGovern, meantime, continued his search for a replacement for Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, dropped Monday night from the second spot on the Democratic ticket.

McGovern's national political director, Frank Mankiewicz, said Wednesday night the announcement of Eagleton's replacement will come by Friday.

Pickpockets marked
MANILA (UPI) — Police authorities have devised a unique way of punishing pickpockets, bag-snatchers and their like in San Fernando Pampanga province, 50 miles north of Manila.

Police authorities require convicted pickpockets to wear front and back signs reading: "I am a pickpocket, beware of me." They claim their method is proving very effective.

MRS. ROBERT LEE RIDER

Perrin-Rider vows are solemnized

Miss. Kempa Ann Perrin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hunter Perrin of Lake Charles, La., became the bride of Robert Lee Rider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Rider of Houston, on June 17, at 2: o'clock in the afternoon in the First United Methodist Church of Lake Charles.

Rev. George Pearce performed the double ring ceremony in the soft candlelight of arched candelabras flanking the altar with large arrangements of yellow and white gladiolas on tall pedestals. Donald Allured was organist.

The bride given in marriage by her brother, Hunter, chose for her wedding, a white pique gown in the princess silhouette that featured a scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves. Heavy Irish lace and seed pearls accented the sleeves, dress and circled the long train. A coronet of matching lace secured her veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies and yellow roses intermixed with baby's breath.

Matron of Honor was Mrs. Hunter Perrin, sister-in-law of the bride, bridesmaids were Mrs. Larry Rider, sister-in-law of the groom and Mrs. Fred Limbocker, both of Houston. Each attendant wore identical skirts fashioned of yellow pique frosted with daisy print insets and topped with long sleeved yellow sheer blouses. White straw hats with yellow interweaving and bouquets of white and yellow daisies accented their ensembles.

THE GENERATION RAP

—by Helen and Sue Bottel

Trapped—or Scared?
Dear Rap:
I'm darn tired of the "trapped bachelor" bit!

Every time we're around people my fiancé gets in this moan about, "Oh, my lost freedom!" or "Only three weeks more till I get the ring in my nose," or something about "ball and chain" day.

I know he's only kidding because we're very much in love and have been looking forward to marriage for almost a year. But it hurts when he doesn't act proud and happy, like I do.

Is there some kind of cutting thing I could say to show him how it feels and make him stop? —D.D.

Dear D.:
I discussed your letter with my Dad who said this is a man's way of joking and don't make a big thing of it. Sorta "whistling in the dark."

What he means, I guess, is that when guys feel very deeply (and a little scared) they cover up with kidding because MEN aren't supposed to show their real emotions. They're programmed that way.

Kid back, but don't try to get even. If your marriage becomes an, "I'll pay you good for that one!" trip, it could get pretty rough. —SUE

Dear D.:
Sorry, Bob and Sue, but I don't altogether agree.

Sniping back to get even doesn't go, but neither does pretending you're not hurt when you are! I think partners should tell each other when their cuts draw blood. Otherwise resentment build-up could drain a marriage dry.

P.S. Besides, it's time these poor "programmed" males realize the old ball-and-chain routine is out of date as a watch fob! —HELEN

Helen And Sue:
I'm a guy with a great girlfriend, but the trouble is she doesn't express her feelings.

We will be together a year this month, but she never says she loves me, just changes the subject when I start telling her how much I care.

Does her silence mean I'm a "nothing" to her, even though she stays with me and sometimes ACTS as if I'm the one? —J.B.

Dear J.:
Maybe she's waiting to say it until she is sure it won't mean—"I'll Love You Forever—"

Plants with soul
BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Agricultural researchers wired a polygraph to some petunias and found the plants responding to emotional situations.

The lie detector showed that the petunias appreciated being watered, worried when a dog approached, "fainted" when violence threatened their growth and showed sympathy when harm came to nearby foliage. The California Farm Bureau concluded that gardeners with "green thumbs" probably develop an emotional relationship with their plants.

Today." Or maybe she wants to be positive this isn't what YOU mean. —HELEN

J:
Maybe your girlfriend is the inarticulate type. It's hard for some people to say, "I love you"—why, I don't know, but the words frighten them.

But...she stays with you, and ACTS as though she cares. Stop worrying. —SUE

Dear Rap:
I'm in my early 20s and very much in love with a beautiful guy, but I don't want to quit my good job and become an overnight mother. His wife died last year and he has teenaged twins.

He says his business isn't doing too well now because he has all the worry of the kids. We have lunch together almost every day and I end up paying because he's broke. I don't like to think this way, but I like having money and a job and I wouldn't be good at "poverty."

How can I get it across that I love him, but don't think I'm ready to settle down? —DON'T WANT TO LOSE HIM

Dear DWTLH:
You want a "beautiful" boyfriend. He wants a mother for his children. Neither of you fits the image.

Don't hang on to him with, "I love you, but..." Turn him loose with, "I don't love you enough..." —HELEN AND SUE

Memphis shackles Amarillo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Memphis is finding it might hard to make up any ground on redhot Alexandria in the Texas League's tough Eastern Division.

Memphis shackled Amarillo 5-0 Wednesday night but looked up on the scoreboard to see that Alexandria had bombed Amarillo 10-5 to remain five full games ahead of the Blues.

In other TL action, Arkansas blanked San Antonio 4-0 and El Paso socked Shreveport 9-1. Randy Sterling scattered nine hits for Memphis and Joe Nolan hit his fourth homer of the season. Sterling allowed five of the hits in the first four innings then shut the door on Amarillo. Sterling evened his record at 9-9 while Leo Mazzone's slate is now 7-6.

Dan Spillner allowed nine hits but got the victory behind an 11-hit Alexandria attack highlighted by John Scott's sixth homer of the year. Spillner is now 13-5 for the season. Greg Millikan of Arkansas outlasted Bill Travers of San Antonio in a pitcher's duel. Both hurlers allowed seven hits. Milt Ramirez clubbed a homer for the winners.

El Paso's Dennis James captured his sixth victory in seven decisions with a five-hitter over the aces. Rick Hansen was the loser, his ninth loss against five wins.

Cedeno leads Astros past Reds

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cesar Cedeno continues to feed on National League pitching—and Wednesday night, had a feast at home plate.

"I wasn't thinking about hitting for the cycle, I was just trying to get a hit," said Cedeno after drilling a single, double, triple and home run to lead the Houston Astros past the Cincinnati Reds, 10-1.

Brewers pound Tigers 13-1

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Milwaukee Brewers were working over the Detroit Tigers Tuesday night but the game was called after six innings because of rain. The Brewers finished the job Wednesday night.

Milwaukee, a city known for beer and a baseball team known for its hold on last place in the American League East, pounded Detroit for 16 hits and nine runs Tuesday night. Brewer pitcher Skip Lockwood also limited the East-leading Tigers to one hit.

The team returned to Tiger Stadium on Wednesday but didn't take the normal pregame batting practice. Manager Del Crandall believes this may have helped as the Brewers collected 18 hits and beat the Tigers 13-1.

"They must have decided to use the game as batting practice," said Crandall. "At least my players aren't clock watchers."

The Brewers got warmed up in the third inning and scored seven runs. Starter and winner Jim Lonborg, 10-5, singled twice in the rally while George Scott drove in two runs with a Cedeno's splashy performance included a double in the first inning, a two-run homer in the third, an RBI single in the fifth and a run-scoring triple in the eighth and fattened his league-leading batting average to .353.

Don Wilson, the Houston pitcher who benefitted from Cedeno's one-man show, had to give the outfielder's performance some deep thought if Cedeno himself wasn't thinking about it.

"When you get 10 runs, it makes it a lot easier," said Wilson, who hasn't gotten that kind of support recently.

In the other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-5 in a 6½-inning, rain-shortened affair; the Philadelphia Phillies trimmed the New York Mets 5-3; the San Diego Padres beat the Atlanta Braves 5-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers turned back the San Francisco Giants 12-11 and the Chicago Cubs downed the Montreal Expos 3-4 in a game cut short after six innings by rain. The contest was the scheduled opener of a two-night doubleheader.

American League results: Oakland 5, Kansas City 0; Chicago 10, California 9; Milwaukee 13, Detroit 1; Texas 4, Minnesota 1; New York 5, Boston 1 in the first game of a day-night doubleheader and Boston 7, New York 4 in the second; and Baltimore 7, Cleveland 0 in the opener of a two-night doubleheader and Cleveland 6, Baltimore 3 in the nightcap.

With Cedeno blasting his 15th homer of the year, the Astros came up with three runs in the third off Cincinnati ace Gary Nolan to give Wilson a comfortable working margin.

The big Houston right-hander then fashioned a six-hitter as the Astros trimmed the Reds for the first time in the Astro-dome this year.

Bernie Carbo's three-run homer capped a 10-hit, nine-run rally in the fourth inning as St. Louis beat Pittsburgh. Carbo's home run was off the Pirates' Bob Johnson, who had come in to help starter Dock Ellis. Ellis started the inning with a 5-0 lead.

Baisden scores tennis upset

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Lynn Epstein of Miami, Fla., became the first seeded player to lose in the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's 14-and-under girls tennis tournament here.

leston, W.Va., seeded second, was upset by Sue Rasmussen of Sunnyvale, Calif., 6-3, 5-7, 6-4.

Gigi Acker of Kalamazoo, Mich., No. 5 seed, was defeated by Carolyn Donigan of Gainesville, Fla., 6-1, 6-1.

Allyson Macatee of Arlington, Va., seeded third, defeated Linda Siegal of Piedmont, Calif., 6-2, 3-6, 6-0, and the No. 4 seed, Lynn Elbert of River Forest, Ill., turned back Toni Moss of Houston, Tex., 6-1, 6-4.

Weary Palmer prepares for first tourney round

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — He's like an aging fight champion, going after the men who occupy the throne that once was his.

Week after weary week he musters his forces to make another challenge, looking for the knockout, seeking a return to lost glory — and week after frustrating week he absorbs his painful, ego-bruising beating. He hasn't won this season.

NFL Alumni Assoc. files pension suit

PROVIDENCE (AP) — Pioneers of the National Football League have filed a federal court suit to win full NFL pension benefits for the league's charter members.

In an action brought in U.S. District Court in Rhode Island, the NFL Alumni Association asked Wednesday that its membership of more than 1,000 retired pro players be included in the league's pension plan, begun formally in 1962.

"This is a sad day for me," said Leon Hart, the president of the alumni group, as he jointly announced with an attorney the action against the NFL Players' in the league and Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Hart, an end with the Detroit Lions in the 1950s and now a Detroit businessman, said step was taken "with great reluctance, but firm resolve" after repeated fruitless efforts to work out an "amicable solution" with the NFL and the Players' Association.

While Hart maintained that Rozelle and the club owners are "sympathetic" to the old players' cause, Decof said the problem boils down to where the additional funds for old-timers' pensions would come from.

SAN DIEGO PADRES

National League West
PROSPECTUS: The most positive thing one can say about the Padres' 1971 season is that they had fewer passed balls than any team in baseball. After that it was all downhill, precipitously. San Diego finished last in the West, 28 games out of first and 17½ out of fifth. They scored fewer runs (486) and got shutout more times (18) than any National League team. And they drew only $57,513 paid fans. They return this year with more or less the same cast of characters that did such a good job of not hurting attendance at the San Diego Zoo. In the only change, they traded away their best pitcher, Dave Roberts, to Houston for three untested young players. Let's see, how does New Orleans Padres sound? Toronto Padres? Miami Padres?

PITCHING—The staff had the league's third best ERA last season but got little support. Roberts' departure leaves Clay Kirby (15-13) as the ace-in-residence, with Steve Arlin (9-19), Fred Norman (3-12), Tom Phoebus (3-11) and Ed Acosta (3-3) as rest of starting rotation. Relief staff of Al Severinsen (2-5 with eight saves), Dick Kelley (2-3), Mike Corkins needs help and Padres have coaxed former Cub Darcy Fast out of retirement. If that sounds like desperation, it is.

INFIELD—Nate Colbert at first. Dave Campbell at second. Enzo Hernandez at short. Ed Spiezio at third. Not exactly a lineup calculated to strike terror in the hearts of opposing pitchers. Colbert, with 27 homers and 84 RBIs on a .264 average, was the only one of the four to hit above .231. Padres hope switch-hitting second baseman Derrel Thomas (.286 at Oklahoma City), who came from Houston, and Garry Jostedt (.286) can improve matters.

OUTFIELD—Speedy John Jeter (.320 in 18 games) and Leron Lee (.264) came in trades last season and have good chance to start, along with Ollie Brown (.273, 55 RBIs) or Clarence Gaston (.228, 61 RBIs). Ivan Murrell (.235) and Larry Stahl (.253) are still around.

CATCHING—Competent Bob Barton (remember how seldom he had a passed ball) hit .250 and has edge on job but Padres would be happy if 20-year-old Mike Ivie, .305 with 15 homers at Lodi in California League, caught on.

Predicted Finish: Sixth in West.

Bobby Hull won't play in series

TORONTO (AP) — Hockey Canada, after a day-long meeting of the board of directors, announced Wednesday that no player who has "defected" to the World Hockey Association from the National Hockey League may play for Team Canada in the September series against Russia.

The four players concerned, all originally picked to play for Team Canada—are Bobby Hull, who went from the Chicago Black Hawks to the Winnipeg Jets; J.C. Tremblay, from the Montreal Canadiens to Quebec City's Les Nordiques; Gerry Cheevers who left the Boston Bruins for Cleveland's Crusaders, and Derek Sanderson, Boston, who joined the Philadelphia Blazers.

At a news conference following the meeting, Clarence Campbell, NHL president, said the main point at issue was that to allow WHA "defectors" to play with NHL stars might hurt the NHL's legal position "in the enforcement of our reserve clause."

Weary Palmer prepares for first tourney round

doesn't have any idea when he will and admits to being dead tired as he went into his fifth tournament in five weeks in three countries.

Still, his head was up, the adrenalin pumping through 42-year-old veins, the muscular forearms writhing like tormented snakes as he clinched his huge, farmer fists in preparation for today's first round of the PGA national championship.

"I still want to win, as much or more than I ever did," said Palmer, the man generally acknowledged as being the guiding force behind golf's emergence from the private preserve of the idle rich to a game played and followed by millions.

"I still think I can win. There's nothing wrong with me physically. I just can't seem to make anything happen."

Victory has escaped him this season. "I've had several chances to win. Greensboro I just threw away on a bad shot," he said. "I could have won the (Bob) Hope and I hit one out of bounds."

"I could have won the (U.S.) Open. I should have won it. There was another, where was it? The Byron Nelson? I should have won."

There's no question that middle age is upon this man who may have been the most popular figure the game has ever seen.

The sandy hair is graying, thinning and receding. There's the trace of a bulge around the beltline. He has a history of bursitis. He's experimented with eye-glasses to correct a near-sighted condition. He's subject to strange, unexpected aches and pains.

But he still exerts a magic effect on the gallery. They flock to him, the elderly citizens, the middle-aged salesmen, matrons and giggling teen-agers, clustering around him, seeking an autograph, trying for a peek at the broad, sloping shoulders, hoping to catch a glimpse of one of the world's most photographed faces.

But there are some deserters from Arnie's Army. It's still a vast, unruly mob, but the numbers aren't the same and the feeling isn't the same. They're more hopeful than confident. And when the hope wanes they drift away to Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino.

"Who's to beat?" he repeated the question concerning the PGA, the one major title he hasn't won. "Oh, it's just the same old mob."

And he went out to try it again.

Olympic swimmer breaks record

CHICAGO (AP) — Mark Spitz is acting like he wants to make sure he won't be overlooked at the 1972 Olympics in Munich.

Within hours of capturing the world record in the 200-meter butterfly Wednesday, the Carmichael, Calif., star roared back to break his own mark in the event.

And in the next three days, Spitz has chances at breaking world records he already owns in the 200-meter freestyle, 100-meter butterfly and 100-meter freestyle as qualifications continue for the U.S. Olympic swimming team.

Seven men and six women earned spots on the squad in five events Wednesday.

"I thought I would probably make the team," grinned Spitz, 22, winner of the 1972 Sullivan Award, presented annually to the person named amateur athlete of the year.

He clipped nearly 1½ seconds off the world record, set by Hans Fassnacht of West Germany last year, with a 2:01.87 run in the 200 butterfly preliminary heat trials in the morning. Less than eight hours later, he covered the same distance in 2:01.53 in the finals.

The other berths in the 200 butterfly went to runner-up Robin Backhaus, a high school senior from Redlands, Calif., and to Gary Hall, Garden Grove, Calif., who swam on the Indiana University squad with Spitz the last few years.

Spitz, now a medical student, was able to gain only a silver medal in the 1968 games and remained noncommittal about his chances for the upcoming games.

Two other records were broken in the finals Wednesday. John Hencken, an 18-year-old Stanford University freshman from Cupertino, Calif., was clocked in 1:05.99 in the 100-meter breaststroke.

This bettered the American record of 1:06.06 set earlier in the preliminaries by Thomas Bruce, UCLA's 1972 NCAA champion. Bruce won one of the 32 male Olympic berths with his runnerup time of 1:06.27 in the finals.

An American record was also fashioned in the women's 100-meter freestyle as Jennifer Kemp, 17, of Norwood, Ohio, won in 58.63.

Navy's football team had 37 lettermen out for spring practice.

Barbara Eagleton is glad it's over for her husband

WASHINGTON (AP) — When it was all over, Secret Service men dismissed and vice-presidential campaign plans but a bittersweet memory, Barbara Ann Eagleton said she couldn't care less if her husband never runs for public office again.

"By Sunday I was a basket case," she said. "You lose so much privacy way up there."

Mrs. Eagleton, wife of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton who saw his career peak and plummet in one short week, said in an interview that she was relieved when he and Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern announced Eagleton would withdraw from the ticket.

"He felt the same way I did," Mrs. Eagleton said of her husband's comments to her after the dramatic press conference Monday night. "I was on the phone when he got home. He came over and kissed me. He was sort of philosophical about it. He knew if George McGovern thought this was the best course to take, then it was fine with him."

Mrs. Eagleton said she was

Members of kidnap plot go on trial

ATHENS (AP) — Eight Greeks went on trial before a military court today on charges of plotting to kidnap John F. Kennedy Jr. and others to finance an attempt to overthrow the military government.

If found guilty, they could get as much as 20 years in prison.

The indictment charged that the gang also planned a series of bank robberies.

The young son of the late U.S. president usually spends the summer in Greece with his mother and stepfather, shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis. The indictment said another prospective kidnap victim was Thomas A. Pappas, the Greek-American businessman and Republican party fund raiser who lives about six months of the year in Greece.

An investigating officer reported that the leader of the gang, Christos Ramadonis, described to him how assault squads were to be formed, modeled on the Urugayan urban guerrillas known as Tupamaros.

"Armed with the money they would get through kidnappings and bank robberies, they would aim at the forcible overthrow of the government and the establishment of a leftist state," the indictment said.

Their arrests were announced July 15.

Four West Germans were arrested about a week earlier and accused of planning to kidnap and kill members of the Greek regime. Police are trying to determine whether they had any connection with the Greek group.

Hempstead County well represented in testing

Hempstead County was well represented in the first 1,000,000 soil samples tested by the University of Arkansas Soil Testing Laboratory.

And on July 24, Paul R. Williams of Hope, was the first Hempstead County person to participate in the testing on the second million samples. He asked for fertilizer and lime recommendations for bermuda, fescue and red clover.

The first samples from the county were tested in 1946. That year each county extension office was allowed to submit only 10 samples. At that time there was only one modest laboratory located on the University of Arkansas campus. In time, the laboratory was expanded and sample limits were removed. As news about the program spread, the laboratory rapidly became swamped with samples. There was such a backlog of samples neither depressed nor disappointed by the decision that made her husband the only American ever to accept and then reject a major-party vice-presidential nomination.

"I was hoping this would be the decision they'd come to, frankly," she said. "I think a presidential election is too important to spend three months talking about what happened six years ago."

Curling her bare feet under her in an easy chair in the living room of their two-story colonial-style house in Chevy Chase, Md., Mrs. Eagleton said of the week's events: "It was kind of like a dream where I kept thinking, 'This is all going to be over with in a couple of weeks, I know.'"

Then, running a hand through her streaky blonde hair, she said with an ironic chuckle, "Well, I was right"

"The reaction in California was great," she said, referring to the whirlwind campaign swing that reached from Missouri to Honolulu right after Eagleton disclosed July 25 that he had been hospitalized three times between 1960 and 1966 for psychiatric treatment, including electric-shock therapy.

"But when I got back and started reading the newspapers and saw what was going on the tube, I said, 'My God, this is bad, really bad.' I was surprised that it had become what I used to call lightly a 'cause celebre.'"

Astronaut to be a minister

NASSAU BAY, Tex. (AP) — Astronaut James Irwin's heavenly experiences are to be put to some earthly good as he plans a religious ministry centered on his Apollo 15 moon flight.

Irwin returned Monday for the Air Force and the space corps then announced Tuesday formation of "High Flight", an evangelical foundation he will use as a platform for speaking to religious groups.

"I saw God's universe in a new perspective. I want to share that feeling with other men," Irwin said in explaining the thrust of his new venture. "It was clear in my mind that I had a message for all men on earth."

The astronaut described his former self as "really just a nuts and bolts guy...a test pilot...operator of a spacecraft." Irwin said he returned from the moon "really a changed person."

He stated that his involvement in the stamp cover controversy would not damage his credibility as an evangelist of the Christian gospel.

"I'm sorry it occurred. We're all subject to make mistakes. I think it demonstrated my frailty as a man when I don't depend on the guidance of God," he said.

Irwin and two colleagues on the Apollo 15 mission were chastened for having taken 400 of the stamp covers to the moon and back. Some of the covers were subsequently sold by a West German stamp dealer for $1,500 each.

Irwin is moving his family to Colorado Springs, Colo., where the new foundation will be headquartered. The astronaut said he will be president of the foundation.

The Rev. William H. Rittenhouse, formerly pastor of the Nassau Bay Baptist Church, which Irwin has attended for the last three years, will be vice president of the foundation. Norman A. Palermo, a Colorado Springs lawyer, is the foundation's secretary-treasurer.

Among the appearances he has already scheduled, Irwin said, are youth rallies, revivals and tours of the Far East and of the Holy Land.

Irwin said his personal finances and the expenses of travel will be underwritten by contributions. He said his crusade would probably last only a year or two because after that he expects his message to lose its freshness. He said he is also employed as a trainee for the Johns Mansville Corp. and is considering opportunities in the broadcast field.

Asked what his title will be during his crusade, Irwin with a smile said, "I sometimes refer to myself as a moon missionary."

"The message I have is one of science and of religion," he said. "I think they are the same. Science is just knowledge, learning God's basic truths."

ATTEND SEMINAR—Mr. and Mrs. Heles McCoy owners of the Tradewinds Motel, here, attended Best Western Motels' orientation seminar held for owners and operators of new motel members at the chain's Phoenix home office this week.

Purpose of the three-day seminar was to present, explain and discuss the requirements and advantages of Best Western membership, and provide the traveling public with the highest standard of service.

Best Western Motels is the nation's largest organization of its kind - with 1,200 owner-operated motels in more than 900 cities from coast to coast.

Street artists attractions in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — As the noon sun beats down, Chris Wilson sets up her display of homemade candles in a waterfront plaza and settles down for a long wait for customers.

Chris is one of San Francisco's street artists, a tourist attraction now banished from the city's sidewalks and parks to Embarcadero Plaza, a wide treeless concrete expanse.

Not many tourists go there. "When we were free to sell on the streets to tourists, we could make a living," said the soft-spoken, 27-year-old Miss Wilson. "Now it is impossible."

The artists, mostly young and long-haired, became well-publicized tourist attractions when they first appeared about 20 months ago. They sold jewelry, paintings, leather goods and other works in downtown Union Square, Fisherman's Wharf, Ghiaardelli Square and other well-visited spots.

But nearby merchants complained that they clogged sidewalks, disrupted tourist traffic and posed an economic threat by selling some of the same goods that were on display in their stores.

After repeated skirmishes with police, the artists were ordered off the streets and into Embarcadero Plaza by the city Board of Supervisors.

Warren Garrick, president of the Street Artists Guild, declares the artists are the target of a "cruel, derogatory hate campaign" by merchants.

Highway safety aim of proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Motorists would be required by law to fasten their seat belts or possibly risk a jail sentence under national highway-safety standards proposed by the Transportation Department.

The proposal announced by the department Tuesday would require states to enforce the new standards or lose millions of dollars in federal highway funds.

Calling the plan an effort to eliminate the state-to-state variations in safety regulations, the department invited public comment during the next 90 days. The department said it intends to implement the plan next April.

The rules, somewhat tougher than the department's first standardization effort in mid-1967, would:

—Follow through on the current regulation requiring all new cars to carry seat belts by also requiring motorists and passengers to buckle them.

—Prohibit modification of safety-related equipment on cars, including a ban on disconnecting buzzers which sound if seat belts are left unfastened.

Henderson may offer course here

Teachers in the Hope area have shown considerable interest in the expanded offerings in professional education for the fall term being planned by the School of Education at Henderson State College, Arkadelphia, according to a spokesman for the college.

As a result, plans are being developed to offer a course in reading especially designed for elementary teachers in Hope, Dr. Curtis Garner, dean of the Henderson State School of Education, said.

The class is scheduled to begin, if the enrollment merits it, shortly after the opening of the public schools in the Hope area.

Further information regarding the graduate course, developmental reading, and other course offerings may be obtained by contacting the Henderson State School of Education, the Hope Public Schools Administrative Office, or James Bullock, principal of the Hopewell Elementary School.

Busy as bees. . .

SS benefits amount to $343,000 monthly

Social Security benefits were being paid to residents of Hempstead County at a rate of $343,000 a month at the close of 1971, Otis A. Blackwood, Social Security district manager in Texarkana has announced.

Of the Social Security beneficiaries living in Hempstead County, 2,491 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 927 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 443 are getting benefits as disabled workers (or their dependents).

Blackwood pointed out that although most Social Security beneficiaries are elderly people, about one out of every four is under age 60; in Arkansas, 94,481 people under age 60 are collecting Social Security payments each month.

V-T school in 7th year

Red River Vocational-Technical School began its seventh school year Tuesday, according to J.W. Rowe, director.

There was capacity—or near capacity—enrollment in each of the eight courses offered, including machine shop, technical forestry, licensed practical nurse, business education, masonry construction, welding, diesel and heavy truck mechanics and heavy equipment operation.

New students are accepted any Monday throughout the school year in any of the classes other than the Licensed Practical Nurse Course provided there is a vacancy. Classes are in session Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

State officials attend Flyway Council meeting

By CHARLES BURTON

GREEN BAY, WISC.—State waterfowl biologist Dave Donaldson and Arkansas Game And Fish Editor Jay Kafka are in Green Bay this week for the meeting of the Mississippi Flyway Council and that means that duck hunters do not have long to wait.

At this meeting the waterfowl biologists from the states in the Mississippi Flyway will report on their findings from their surveys of the duck production in the breeding grounds. There will also be reports from the federal biologists and following this meeting there will be another meeting in Washington D.C., which will decide the framework for the duck seasons in the various flyways. After the federal framework is settled the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission will be able to select its season and bag limit.

At the July commission meeting the commissioners heard Donaldson report that Arkansas duck hunters should expect things to be much the same as last year. He stated that the season should be much the same or slightly more restrictive.

Donaldson, accompanied by three members of the commission, has just completed an aerial tour of waterfowl breeding grounds in the Canadian provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

BOUNDARIES CHANGED
The boundary lines for the Wattensaw Wildlife Management Area have been changed. For the past several years the area has been operated within boundaries marked by highways 70 and 11 and Wattensaw Bayou and the White River. These boundaries included considerable amounts of private land but they were the only easily recognizable lines available until the actual purchase boundaries could be painted and signs could be posted.

The purchase boundaries have now been marked and signed, and the area will now be operated within these lines. The boundary is marked with orange paint and yellow and black signs. The southern boundary will now lie considerably north of U.S. Highway 70 and the northern boundary will take in some land north of Wattensaw Bayou. State Highway 11 will continue to serve as a large segment of the western line and the White River will bound the area on most of its eastern edge.

WHITE RIVER REFUGE—White River Refuge Manager Raymond McMaster has released details for this year's permit gun deer hunts. The two hunts will be on November 24-25 on the East side of the refuge and December 1-2 on the West side. There will be 2,750 permits issued for the first hunt and 3,000 for the second.

Permits will again be chosen by digital computer and each applicant must fill out a special application form. These can be obtained in person or by writing Refuge Manager, Box 308, DeWitt, 72042. Applicants must enclose a stamped, self addressed envelope at least four inches by nine inches. Postage varies with the number of forms requested. For one use eight cents, for two or three use 16 cents, and for four or five use 24 cents. Party request will be limited to five. The application period closes September 8.

HERBERT BURNS

The Railroads of Arkansas are pulling for you.

And we're pushing Arkansas' economy upward by providing low-cost, reliable, safe transportation service.

For instance, last year alone, over 36,000,000 tons were shipped to and from Arkansas by rail. Everything from lumber to feed. From oil to rice. From aluminum to cotton.

The Railroads of Arkansas form one of the state's largest industries. We employ nearly 9,000 Arkansans with a payroll of approximately $90,000,000. Besides maintaining nearly 3,600 miles of track, we have invested an estimated quarter of a billion dollars in permanent facilities in Arkansas. And as one of the state's major corporate taxpayers, we annually pay over four million dollars in property taxes alone.

We're all proud to be part of Arkansas' progress. And all of us look forward to playing an even greater role in fulfilling the promise of Arkansas' land and her people.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

"Maybe I am going to qualify for the unlucky expert category. It seems I am already an unlucky student," complained the student.

"West had to get off to a lead of ace and another heart. I drew trumps; led a diamond to dummy's king and lost the diamond finesse. West led back a diamond and when the suit failed to break I was still able to lead a club to my king only to have West produce the ace. Wasn't I better than a four to one favorite to make my contract?"

"You were on your line of play," replied the professor.

"You had a certainty with the correct line."

The professor was right as always. After drawing trumps the student should have led a low diamond from dummy and played his eight spot. This might cost him an overtrick but at the same time it would have insured his contract.

West would have won the trick with the 10 or nine. Should he lead a club, South would score his king. Should he lead a heart the student would ruff in dummy and discard his four of clubs, and should he lead back a diamond the student would win with his jack; cash his ace; enter dummy with a trump and discard a club on the king of diamonds.
